Men Who Will Manage the Chicago Exposition.

How the Work Has Been Divided-Chiefs of the Various Great Departments Committees Appointed by the House and Senate.

The work of the exposition is divided into the following great departments, over which is established a chief officer, appointed by the director general: Agriculture, Food and Food Products Farming Machinery and Appliances, W. I. Buchanan, chief. Viticulture, Horticulture and Floriculture, John M. Samuels, chief. Live Stock, Domestic and Wild Animals, Eber W. Cottrell, chief. Fish, Fisheries, Fish Prod-ucts and Apparatus of Fishing, J. W. Collins, chief. Mines, Mining and Metallurgy, F. J. V. Skiff. Machinery, Lewis W. Robinson, chief. Transportation Exhibits, Railways, Vessels, Vehicles, Willard A. Smith, chief. Manufactures, James Allison, chief. Electricity and Electrical Appliances, J. P. Barrett, chief. Fine Arts, Pictorial, Plastic and Decorative, Halsey C. Ives, chief. Liberal Arts, Education, Engineering, Public Works, Architecture, Music and the Drama, Selim II. Peabody, chief. Ethnology, Archeology, Progresss of Labor and Invention—isolated and collective exhibits—F. W. Putnam, chief. Forestry and Forest Products, temporarily in charge of Chief W. I. Buchanan, of the department of agri-culture. Publicity and Promotion, Moses P. Handy, chief. Foreign Affairs, Walker Fearn, chief.

These departments are at all times open to the inspection of the appropriate committees of the national commis sion and local directory, and to facilitate and harmonize the work of the ex-position in both national and local respects there was created a joint com-mittee composed of sixteen of the most eminent members of the national commission and of the board of directors known as the board of reference and control, in whom are vested to a considerable degree the powers of the executive committees of each body. To this board are referred all questions relating to the rights, powers and duties of the two bodies, from whose membership its personnel is drawn and its ac-tion is in all cases final. The board of reference and control is composed of the president, vice president and six members of the commission, who are appointed by the president; and of the president and seven members of the directory, appointed by the president. The members of the board of reference control representing the national com mission consists of Hon. T. W. Palmer, president, Michigan; James A. Mckenzie vice chairman, Kentucky; Thomas M. Waller, Connecticut; Michael II. de Walter, Connecticut; Michael II. de Young, California; William Lindsay, Kentucky; George V. Massey, Dela-ware; J. W. St. Clair, West Virginia, and E. B. Martindale, of Indiana. The representatives of the directory on the board are Messrs. William T. Baker, president of the board of directors; Lyman J. Gage, ex-president; Thomas B. Bryan, first vice president; Potter Palmer, second vice president; Fred W. Peck, Fred S. Winston, Edwin Walker and Harlow N. Higinbotham.

The members of the senate committee on the quadro-centennial and of the committee of the house of repre-sentatives on the world's fair comprise many of the most noted names in current political history. The senate committee is composed of Messrs. Pettigrew, of South Dakota, chairman; Hiscock, of New York; Sherman, of Ohio; Cameron, of Pennsylvania; Hawley, of Connecticut; Wilson, of Iowa; Felton, of California; Cullom, of Illinois; Colquitt, of Georgia; Vest, of Missouri; Kenna, of West Virginia; Gray, of Delaware; Daniel, of Virginia; Vilas, of Wisconsin, and Gibson, of Maryland. The committee of the house of representatives is composed of Messrs. A. C. Durborow, of Illinois; McCreary, of Kentucky; Reilly, of Pennsylvania; Houk, of Ohio; Wheeler, of Alabama, Lagan, of Louisiana; Little, of New York; Cogswell, of Massachusetts; Dingley, of Maine; McKenna, of California, and Dolliver, of Iowa.

Through the efforts of the committee. congressional interest in the fullest success of the Columbian exposition has been wonderfully quickened. A broader comprehension of the benefits to accrue to the nation from the grand display of her civic and industrial progress before the ealightened and inquiring repre-sentatives of other countries is held, and the work done by these gentlemen in congress in encouraging the citizens of Chicago and the citizens of the whole country, may not be overestimated. Their hearty cooperation in the work of advancing the enterprise up to the present is an earnest of their continued efforts for its welfare in the future.

INDIANA IS NOT FOR GRAY.

Mr. Shanklin Says That the Party Favors

Mr. Cloveland. Indianapolis, Ind., March 24 .-Hon. John G. Shanklin, editor of the Evansville Courier and one of the leading candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor, in a political speech here last night, said:

We are now on the eve of a great campaign. I believe that in this crisis all personal consideration should be haid asid. As Indianians we would all rejoice in the elevation of our gifted leader, Governor Gray. If we could speak the word that would make him President it would be spoken; but it is so plain that the overwhelming sentiment of Indiana is for Cleveland's renomination, that he who runs may read. We cannot mold the Democratic sentiment of the country with our thirty votes from Indiana. The State has been discredited in the eyes of the party by its repeated demands for first place on the ticket, with the palpable alternative that it would take the second. We have gone to the national Democratic convention with first end pretensions and tail end expectations until Indiana's welcome has become somewhat cold. The time has not yet come for a Presidential candidate from It diana. The sentiment of the party in this State (I say it solemnly and with a full sense of its meaning) is for Grover Cleveland.

Attorney General Smith followed Ma.

Attorney General Smith followed Mr. Shanklin, and indorsed all that he said, adding that he would make 100 speeches during the canvass on the line of Cleveland's tariffreform message. Hon. John W. Kern also indorsed Shanklin.
